

A Math Major's Summer Recap

Ellie Schumacher '24

Are you wondering about different summer possibilities? Come to the talk to learn more about summer opportunities with Ellie! Ellie used math during her summer projects! Ellie Schumacher '24 became a remote intern for the Intelligent Transportation Society of America (ITS America). She worked on transportation-related projects from both policy and technical angles, learning about the nonprofit industry. Ellie also participated in the Summer Institute for Training in Biostatistics and Data Science (SIBDS) program at Columbia's School of Public Health. During this program, she was able to take biostats and data science classes, as well as conduct an applied math research project about dementia biomarkers.
